Sept. 8, 1939.

Dear and Honoured Colleague,

It was a pleasure to receive your kind letter of Aug. 7th, recommending Mr. G. Wetschky, but our Faculty was on holiday at the time and nothing could be done. I was advised to postpone the matter of his reception as a student, and now Europe's confusion has made it impossible. I am very sorry not to be able to welcome him as one of our guests in the College.

Let me offer you my own, and my Colleagues', and my family's affectionate greetings. Have us in your prayers. However unworthy we have all been in past years, we are resolved with God's blessing to make a stand against the malice and oppression under which this poor world has been groaning.

We think often of you our comrades in Switzerland. Is it not your battle also that we have to fight.

Edgar was at Lucerne with Rud. Serkin in the final crisis but got safely home, his second crisis - return from your country within twelve months. How long? How long, was this to continue. He remembers gratefully the kindness of your house. We trust all is well with Markus and his fiancée. They are dear young people.

Yours ever,

William A. Curtis.
