My dear Colleague,

Best wishes to you for the New Year!

I have revised my translation of the "Prolegomena" and now send you my list of errata. I hope you will not think them ignorant or too careful! Please forgive.

I trust you had my last letter regarding the wishes of the publisher. I would be glad to hear from you. I love your book more and more, and trust it will not be long before I can give it to English-speaking readers. And I long for the Dogmatik itself, and hope that the success of the translation of the "Prolegomena" will cause you to let me do likewise for the main body of the work.

I have recommended the trustees of the "Humboldt Stiftung" to allow one of my Hungarian students, Joseph Kovacs, who is studying Calvin's Eschatology, to come to you in Bonn for the year 1931-2.

Greeting and Blessing!

Yours sincerely,

G.T. Thomson
