My dear Dr. Barth:

Under separate cover I am sending you a copy of my "GEOLOGICAL-AGES HOAX," as promised. It is a brief, popular statement of my two more technical works on geology.

Here in America, the conservative scholars (often nicknamed "Fundamentalists") have quite generally discarded the day-age theory of creation, and instead have adopted the views which for thirty years I have been setting forth in my dozen-odd books, which is that the Flood should be taken at its full face-value in trying to interpret the geological record; and that accordingly we can also believe in a literal Creation, as set forth in the first chapter of the Bible.

I hope you will feel free to tell me what you think of my line of argument.

Very truly yours,

P. S. I have travelled quite a little on the Continent of Europe, and can read German fairly well; but I cannot trust myself to write it. So it will be all right if you wish to write me in your own language.
