My dear Herr Professor,

It was a great pleasure to receive your postcard with its kind greeting. My wife and I have the happiest recollections of your visit to us and few things would give us greater pleasure than if you could repeat it. I shall certainly try when I am on the Continent to come to see you at Bonn if I can. Unfortunately present conditions make travelling costly and therefore difficult. I wish you the best of happiness in the New Year and I know that my wife and Miss Gibson would wish to join in these good wishes if they were here.

With warmest regards,

I am,

Yours very sincerely,
