

The University, Glasgow.

19th January 1934

Dear Professor Barth,

I am taking the liberty of writing to you, although I had not the honour of meeting you personally when you were here a year or two ago. The reason is this: I was recently presented with your "Romans" in Sir Edwin Hoskyns' version, and have been profoundly stirred and helped by it. I feel I must say how much I stand in your debt.

Will you do me the honour of accepting as a small token of my gratitude the accompanying copy of "The Psalms for Modern Life"- a publication which is having a great vogue with us just now. It occurred to me to send this because, if I have at all grasped your exposition, the illustration opposite Psalms 125 and 126 powerfully expresses the attitude of "Faith". I think also you may be interested in Mr. Wragg's striking work as a whole.

With great respect and gratitude,

Yours sincerely,

A. B. Craig