Dear and Honoured Colleague,

I am informed that some time ago my lamented Colleague Professor Mackintosh wrote a letter to you on behalf of the Students in our Faculty, inviting you to become the Honorary President of their Theological Society for 1936-1937, and to deliver an Address to them on a convenient date during the Session if you expect to be in Great Britain.

May I inquire whether you will be in this country between October and February, and whether you can be our Guest and Lecture to our Students? It would indeed be a great honour to them and to the Faculty. I would gladly provide your travel expenses and hospitality. You are aware how deep an interest we take in Scotland in your great work and your Christian testimony. I remember well your delightful visit to my house.

Would you kindly assist us to complete our programme for the Theological Society by sending me a reply in the enclosed Air-Post Envelope as soon as may be possible.

Heartly greetings and cordial remembrance from

Yours Sincerely,

William A. Curtis.
